What are the different types of support available for children with SEND in our school?

- Class teacher input via excellent targeted classroom teaching (Quality First Teaching).

For your child this would mean:

- That the teacher has the highest possible expectations for your child.
- That all teaching is built on what your child already knows, can do and can understand.
- Different ways of teaching are in place so that your child is fully involved in learning in class. This may involve things like using more practical learning.
- Specific strategies are in place to support your child to learn.
- Through pupil progress meetings with senior staff and the inclusion team the needs of your child will be identified and met.

Interventions which may be appropriate:

- Delivered in the classroom or outside the classroom.
- Delivered by a teacher, Teaching Assistant (TA) or specialist agency.

Specialist support may be available via referral.

- Referral will take place after consultation and permission from you.
- Local Authority Services such as the Education Psychology Service (EPS).
- The specialist professional may work with you, your child and or the school to understand their needs and make recommendations to support your child.
- Children with very complex needs may require assessment for an Education Health and Care Plan (EHC Plan).

What is an Education, Health and Care Plan?

The Education, Health and Care (EHC) plan puts you – children, young people and families – at the very centre of the assessment and planning process, to make sure that your views are not only heard but also understood. This is called person centred planning and is all about increasing your choice and control. This process focuses on what is important for children and young people – what they and you want to achieve now and in the future. Young people and families have helped to design the plan and so far people are saying that they feel more listened to and more involved in decision-making in ways that make sense to them. Who is it for? The EHC plan is for children and young people who have special educational needs and disabilities and where an assessment of education, health and social care needs has been agreed by a multi-agency group of professionals. It is available from birth to age 25. The school will be able to offer advice on the process and eligibility for an assessment.

Parents can make applications for assessment directly with the Hertfordshire SEND Team.

How does the school know the provision they are providing is working?

- The school monitors the effectiveness of interventions through pupil progress meetings, discussion with you, staff, other professionals and your child.

How can I let the school know I am concerned about my child's progress in school?

- If you have concerns about your child's progress you should speak to your child's class teacher.
- If you continue to be concerned that your child is not making progress, you can ask for an appointment with a member of the Inclusion team.
- The school SEND Governor can also be contacted for information about the systems in place to support children with SEND.

How will the school let me know if they have any concerns about my child's learning needs in school?

- If the school identifies your child as having a possible additional learning need they will contact you and share their concerns.
- The school will discuss with you any referrals to outside professionals if required to support your child's learning.
- You will be invited to be involved in any decisions made about your child,

How is extra support allocated?

- The school budget, received from Hertfordshire LA, includes money for supporting children with SEND.
- The Head Teacher delegates the responsibility of SEND allocations to the Inclusion team who decides upon the deployment of resources for Special Educational Needs and Disabilities. This is in consultation with the headteacher and shared with the school governors, on the basis of needs in the school.
- The Head Teacher and the Inclusion team discuss all the information they have about SEND in the school, including:
The children receiving additional support already
The children requiring additional support
- The child's view will be sought informally and for review meetings; this may not always be possible with very young children / children with delayed development.
- Schools identify the needs of their pupils on a school provision map which for SEND pupils identifies resources/training and support, and these are reviewed termly and changes made as needed.
